PLACIDO

Placido wines owe their phenomenal popularity to choice grapes grown in some of the world's premier wine regions, centuries of European winemaking experience and a quality-price ratio difficult to mat Consisting of eight noble wine types, their consume appeal has grown consistently, year after year.

The brand inherited its name from a famous Sienese family, the Placidi, on whose vast estate some of the Placido vines grow today. The land was awarded to t family back in the Middle Ages and remained in the possession of its descendants until modern times.
